Overview of changes

Recent hardware revisions for the generally available version of the DRIVE AGX Thor platforms – i.e., 940-63960-0010-000 (SKU 10) and 940-63960-0012-000 (SKU 12) – incorporate updated internal components for Infineon 10 Gb Ethernet Phy and Realtek Ethernet Switch devices. While these updates do not result in a functional change to the hardware, they do require corresponding software support that is not present in older DriveOS releases.

Software compatibility requirements

The updated hardware revisions (specifically the 670-63960-0010-001 and 670-63960-0012-001 level boards) require minimum software versions to function. Using older DriveOS versions on these new boards will cause the software installation to fail.

- > Supported Versions:
 - DriveOS 7.2.5 and later.
 - DriveOS 7.0.5.1 and later.
- > Unsupported Versions:
 - Any DriveOS version earlier than 7.2.5.
 - Any DriveOS version earlier than 7.0.5.1.

The original hardware versions (specifically the 670-63960-0010-000 and 670-63960-0012-001 level boards) are supported with DriveOS 7.0.1 or later, and DriveOS 7.2.1 or later versions. Said another way, the original hardware versions are not affected.

To learn more about querying the 670-level NVPN, see: NVIDIA DriveOS Linux Installation Guide, version 7.2.5 or later, section DRIVE Platform Supported Boards.

How to verify your hardware

To determine if your board is affected by this compatibility requirement, you must query the board revision number.

- > Action Required: Please refer to the NVIDIA DriveOS Installation Guides, supported versions (indicated above) for both Linux and QNX, section DRIVE Platform Supported Boards.
- > Instructions: These guides include specific steps and commands to query the 670-level NVPN and verify if you have updated hardware.
